Coroner States Overdose of Vernal Probable Cause of Fatality

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13.—Rigorous investigation into the death of Chas. William Case Deering, millionaire sportsman, clubman and amateur aviator son of the former head of the Deering Harvester company, was instituted today by Coroner T. E. W. Leland when a history of the case disclosed that death probably followed an overdose of veronal.

Deering died at his home, 2111 Franklin street last Sunday at 5 a. m. and it was reported that he had succumbed to a fractured skull and pelvis incurred when he fell with an airplane at Crissy Field on November 17, 1923.

Yesterday it was revealed by the coroner's office that Deering had practically recovered from his injuries and that he had died after his physicians, Dr. Samuel H. Hurwitz and Dr. Edward W. Twitcheff had battled with stomach pumps to save him.

Three empty eight-ounce bottles which had contained a mixture of veronal with 35 per cent of alcohol were found on the floor of his bedroom, it is said.

The coroner has caused the stomach to be sent to the city chemist for analysis of its contents and is conducting his inquiry on the theory that Deering might have taken the poison with suicidal intent.

Mother's Suicide Attempt Fails To Halt Daughter's Wedding

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—Romance that would not be denied even in the shadow of death, aroused interest in the worldly world Monday last, when a girl of 18 obtained a license to wed the man of her choice, although her mother had taken poison in despair at the approaching nuptials.

Myrtle Harriman, 36 Meritt street, and George Edward Miller, taxicab driver, are the sweethearts in the story that took a Shakespearean turn when the mother, Mrs. Jennie Harriman, decided that death was preferable to her daughter's approaching union with Miller.

Argument had failed with the girl, who had decided to obtain a license Monday afternoon. The grief-stricken mother swallowed poison hoping that her tragedy would avert what she considered a calamity in her daughter's life. She was rushed to the Central Emergency hospital where treatment was administered which soon revived her.

She heard that preparations for her daughter's marriage were progressing, despite her narrow escape from the "valley of the shadow." Then Mrs. Harriman, accompanied by her husband, made the trip to the license clerk's office where she signed an affidavit of agreement. Miller did not appear so the trio departed leaving the affidavit with the clerk. Later Miller and his sweetheart came for the license.

Telephone Company States Its Case on Patents Affecting Radio; Declares Monopoly Not Intended

Following the publication of newspaper stories to the effect that many radio broadcasting stations would be forced to close owing to a complaint made by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, a statement was issued by the telephone company giving its side of the question. The statement, received yesterday by G. R. Calvert, local manager for the company, is as follows:

"In view of the conflicting accounts and interpretations of the suits recently instituted by the company to protect its patents affecting radio telephone broadcasting, it will perhaps be helpful to relate the circumstances that resulted in the present patent situation.

"Some time before the war the Bell system research laboratories began development of what is now called the vacuum tube, as a long distance telephone amplifier or regenerator. It was this development that made possible transcontinental telephony. The laboratories of the General Electric company had also undertaken the development of this apparatus for other purposes. As was inevitable, with two great experimental laboratories engaged in similar research, each company acquired inventions and improvements of mutual usefulness.

Patent Considerations Put Aside During War

"With the coming of the war and the paramount requirements of the army and navy in the field of communications, each company put aside considerations of patent ownership, and there was rapid co-operative development of this apparatus in its application to transmission by wire and wireless.

"When the end of the war ended the necessity for this emergency aid, regard of patent rights, a valuable art had been developed which no one in the business of communications could use without infringing upon the rights of others.

"Under such conditions there could be no further manufacturing of certain apparatus, nor further development of this art, and the navy department of our government requested this company and the General Electric company to try to relieve the situation for the general welfare.

"In response to this request, negotiations were initiated and carried through to an arrangement of cross licenses to which other owners of patents in this field were afterward admitted. For practical operation under this arrangement, it was necessary that the parties to the agreement be given the specific uses of the apparatus in question that were logical to their business.

"It was in this that licenses for certain uses in connection with radio telephony came to us, as our directors reported to the stockholders at the time.

The Company's Fundamental Purpose

"The company's prime purpose in operating under these licenses has been such development of the radio art as would be useful in relation to telephone service.

"Actuated by this prime purpose, we established an experimental broadcasting station in New York in order to be better able to study not only radio transmission problems, but also public taste in broadcast entertainment, and to furnish advice to our associated companies with respect thereto.

"By this time there was widespread popular interest in broadcasting, as was evidenced by the growth of the industry furnishing apparatus for radio reception. A realization of the extent of this interest led to a sudden demand for broadcasting stations from individuals and concerns wishing to establish a contact with the public for their own benefit by means of matter transmitted through the ether.

"Consideration of many of these applications disclosed that all of the economic factors involved, as well as the high costs of operation and maintenance, had not been fully realized. It was apparent that if there were a free sale of broadcasting apparatus, some purchasers would experience disappointing results. It was also clear that a multitude of stations would create a condition of congestion that would certainly lessen, and might possibly destroy, the value of broadcasting to the public.

"From the financial standpoint it would have been profitable to manufacture and install all the broadcasting apparatus sought for. We

REPUBLICAN CHANGES BALLOT

Shift Results in Victory for Administration Over Opponents

WASHINGTON, May 13.—President Coolidge's veto of the Bursum pension bill was sustained by the Senate today by a margin of one vote.

Fifty-three senators, many of them heretofore classed as administration followers, voted to override the veto, while twenty-eight, the majority of whom were southern Democrats, sustained the President. A two-thirds vote, or fifty-four, was necessary to override.

After the roll was called, Senator Harrell, Republican, of Oklahoma, changed his vote so as to sustain the President, thus preventing the bill from becoming a law despite the veto. A close tab had been kept on the roll call by supporters of the President, as well as by Senator Bursum, and just when the advocates of the measure were about ready to proclaim victory Harrell changed his vote.

Soon after the vote was announced, Senator Bursum introduced another pension bill, framed along the same lines, providing for smaller increases. Under the new proposal veterans of the Civil war would get an increase from $50 to $60, instead of $72 provided in the rejected bill.

Tax Delinquency In County Said To Be Very Small

County Tax Collector Martin Joost reports the smallest tax delinquency for a great number of years, being more than $5000 less than the delinquency for last year, whereas a great many of the other counties of the state have a greater delinquency than for many years past, supposedly owing to the drought and other unfavorable conditions.

The total tax to be collected in Contra Costa for the year just ended amounts to the sum of $2,440,929.78. Of this amount $2,395,827.05 was collected, leaving a delinquency of but $45,092.73, a very small percentage of the total. Fresno county's delinquency for this year is almost double that of last year.

NEW FINANCIAL POLICIES FOR FRENCH GIVEN

Suppression of Taxation Voted in March Expected by Government

MINISTERS TO BE ELECTED

Capital Levy Expected to Be Assisted Upon by Extreme
Socialists

PARIS, May 13.—The financial policies of the new government, which will follow when Premier Poincare resigns on June 1 were revealed by the "Journal Libre" this afternoon. The paper outlines the policy as follows:

Suppression of the new taxation voted in March.

Suppression of the salary tax.

Granting of 1,800 franc bonuses to government employees.

Probably the adoption of a capital levy to replace the canceled taxation.

It is expected that the capital levy will be insisted upon by the extreme Socialists and communists as the price of their support. It is now universally admitted that the extremists hold the balance of power. The next cabinet probably will comprise the following:

Premier—Edouard Herriot, who will also take the ministry of the interior.

Minister of Foreign Affairs—Aristide Briand.

Minister of Justice—Leon Blum.

Minister of Finance—Henry Berger, L. K. Lotz or Vincent Auriol.

Will Make Few Changes in Local Police Department

Dan Cox, newly appointed chief of police, will take office Friday morning and will pursue a policy of strict law enforcement, he stated yesterday. Few changes will be made in the department, Cox said, though the personnel may be slightly changed. It is expected that the recently adopted set of rules for the police department, calling for the appointment of a police chief, will be put into effect.

THE "LOST STATES"

Not any of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's "lost states" will be lost to the Republican party in the forthcoming election by reason of wet sentiment in the states and a law enforcement plank in the platform. Stranger things have happened and the Republican party might fail to carry any of the states mentioned, but the reason will not be the party's dry tendency.

The Democratic party, we venture, will not go any farther than the Republican in helping out the wets. It will not dare offend a large and certainly growing section of the people who believe that prohibition is right and booze is wrong, and while not satisfied with enforcement, are sternly against going back to the pre-prohibition trying to perpetuate.

Dr. Butler has evolved a theory about the wet and dry issue and on the basis of encouragement he has received from admirers, now thinks to get somebody else to be with him in his stand. He is deceived in his 10,000 letters because people who do not approve his attitude are not impelled to tell him so—prohibition is the law of the land, and it is the anti-prohibitionists now who must do the attacking.

AND IT'S A SHAME

"It is incredible that a system of taxation which permits a man with an income of $1,000,000 to pay not a cent to the support of his government should remain unaltered," declares Secretary Mellon in his new book, on taxation, but that is precisely the situation which the Democrats who are fighting the Mellon plan trying to perpetuate.

The Democratic minority declared in their report that "the value of all tax-exempt securities held by these decedents (with gross estate of $2,879,732,168) was not sufficient to pay the funeral and administrative expenses."

Mr. Mellon comes back with the official record of the estate tax of the late William Rockefeller. His estate comprised $44,000,000 of tax-exempt securities and only $7,000,000 of Standard Oil stock. While he paid taxes on an income of perhaps $426,000 from his Standard Oil stocks he did not pay one penny of taxation on income of probably $1,760,000 invested in tax-exempt securities.

This is what Secretary Mellon would have corrected, but which the Democrats and the insurgents are fighting to perpetuate.

A MAGNIFICENT TRIBUTE

A great many regard the recent tribute paid to Calvin Coolidge by Nathaniel Elsborg, retiring president of the National Republican Club of New York, as the finest, truest, and most appropriate that has been rendered since Mr. Coolidge entered public life. It is terse and to the point, and well merits wide publication.

Characterizing President Coolidge as "a man of plain living and high thinking, of dry humor and hard-headed honesty," Mr. Elsborg said:

"Here is a man with none of the arts of graces which have been deemed part of the necessary capital for a political career; a man who in a vocal age is only vocal when real occasions make demand for it; a man with neither the dramatic touch which other leaders have possessed, nor the captivating personality or the appealing eloquence which have helped other men to power. He is strong because while his face is lifted to the stars he keeps his feet firmly planted on the ground."

The people of the United States are very weary of pomp and panoply, handshaking, baby-kissing, and all the arts and wiles of the political demagogue. They are for sterling integrity in administration and conscientious and painstaking effort to run the government engine at the highest efficiency without any dare-devil stunts and appeals to hysteria. They want a president who is the sort of man that Mr. Elsborg portrays and President Coolidge is just that sort of man.

600 TO ATTEND ANNUAL DINNER

More than 600 men and women are expected to attend the first annual Community dinner, which, sponsored by fifteen civic organizations, will be given at the Roosevelt Junior High school Thursday night, May 23.

The various organizations are to be seated in sections and a loving cup will be offered for the largest percentage attendance by any club, according to a report issued by the Chamber of Commerce. The cup is to be a perpetual trophy and is to become the property for one year of the organization winning it at each annual dinner. It won three times in succession the cup will become the permanent possession of the club.

Dr. E. A. Cottrell, head of the research department of the California Development Association and head of the political science department at Stanford, will be the speaker for the evening. Dr. Cottrell is reputed one of the most forceful orators in the state. The program also will include orchestra and vocal music and stunts by the various civic organizations, following out the theme of the meeting "Richmond Forward."

Governor Friend W. Richardson, president of the Chambers of Commerce in the bay district, the members of the board of supervisors and other prominent men will be among the invited guests at the dinner.

Civic organizations, members of the Community Council, which is sponsoring the dinner, are as follows:

MASS MEETING TONIGHT

A public mass meeting will be held at the Washington school under the auspices of the Point Richmond Commercial club. The meeting will be devoted to the discussion of the bath house bonds, and has been called for 7:45 o'clock.

"The Drug Traffic" Feature Showing At Richmond Today

Glady Brockwell, one of the most popular screen stars, in "The Drug Traffic," which will be shown at the Richmond Theatre today and tomorrow, portrays one of the most human roles ever brought to the stage. As Mary, a former drug addict, who has reformed and joined the Salvation Army in a determined effort to help humanity, Miss Brockwell is called upon to do much of acting. The role of the reformed East Side flend is one that will not pass out of memory with the last flicker of the film for it is a character that grips the heartstrings, holding the attention of the audience undivided.

However, Miss Brockwell is supported by an all-star cast of equally well known artists, among them being Barbara Tennant and Bob Walker. The latter in the role of Dr. Madison, a young and promising surgeon, who, disappointed in love, deceived by his most intimate friend and fatigued to the point where he is about to break down from overwork, is at his best. It is about the adventures of Dr. Madison, who falls from the uppermost heights of his own profession to the gutters of the underworld East Side only to be saved by the love of a wife, that "The Drug Traffic" is artistically an unusual production, delivering a lesson in truly entertaining fashion. It is virtually Hollywood's answer to the drug traffickers, for the latter are exposed in their dealings with addicts, and a remedy that is truly remarkable is given. "The Drug Traffic" is a picture that every man, woman and child should see.

Other features on the same program include, "Taxi Pleasure" a roaring comedy. Kinograms also are on the same bill.

LEAVENWORTH CASE MACDONALD

A new motion picture dealing with mystery maintain the suspense until the end. Unlike the spoken drama this form of amusement is such that often secrets must be divulged which reveal the solution of the mystery. For this reason few detective stories have made much of a success upon the screen.

Anna Katharine Green won fame through writing mystery stories that baffled solution until she was ready to reveal the guilty person. At no time does she purposely conceal the identity or try to prevent the reader from solving the problem. In fact, when the denouement comes it is so simple that the reader is surprised he did not suspect the guilty one from the first.

The screen version was made under the direction of Charles Giblyn, who was given similar instructions. As an added precaution against injecting extemporaneous matter into the scenes every member of the cast was required to read the book and get into the spirit of the story before a single scene was "shot." The cast includes Seena Owen, Martha Mansfield, Wilfred Lytell, Bradley Barker and Paul Doucet.

When the production was finished and titled, Mr. Bennett invited a critical audience to review it. The film was projected upon the screen up to the solution and then the film was stopped. A vote was taken as to who was guilty of the crime. Not

The Hi-Y club held the regular session Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, with a good attendance of members. The meeting was opened with an elaborate supper and was followed by a social time, and a business session.

A. secretary, gave a short talk, and addresses were also given by Merrill Gherard and Alex Poulson. An interesting discussion was held by several members on "What Will I Be When I Grow Up."

a person was able to give the solution and all were eager to see the final flashes.

This is one of the few mystery pictures that maintains the mystery to the end. Mr. Bennett is so elated over the results that he expects to make added experiments in the near future.

DROPSY

"I suffered from a dropsical condition in my sides and in both legs. When I pressed these places with my fingers there were deep depressions. My condition was such that I never expected to be alive at this time this year. As I could get no relief elsewhere, I tried the FONG WAN HERBS CO. Now, after having taken them for three months, although I am in the eighties, I am in condition, and I can make no dents anywhere on my body. My address can be obtained at a FONG WAN OFFICE."

DEPUTY SHERIFF TESTIFIES

This is to certify that for many years I suffered from catarrh accompanied by deafness and a buzzing noise in my ears. I tried many physicians and later went to the University Clinic for treatment. The doctors there inserted an instrument in my nose in an attempt to restore my hearing. The only effect was to cause me awful pain and bleeding of the nose. From that time on my nose was stuffed up and my suffering was worse than ever before. Seeing a FONG WAN HERBS CO. advertisement, I went to their wonderful Herb Specialist. After drinking the herbs for about two months I was completely cured.

"Why Men Leave Home" Is Told At California

"Why Men Leave Home," a first National picture, produced by John M. Stahl, which is now the feature at the California Theatre, contains one of the most unusual and unique situations ever conceived in the brain of a writer. The credit for it goes to Avery Hopwood, the author of this play, which ran for more than a year on Broadway.

John Emerson, the leading character in the play, finds himself married with his divorced wife in his mother-in-law's home, but a few hours after his remarriage to his stenographer. His former wife is unaware of the fact that he has married again, and pleads with him to "try it again." Emerson is willing enough, but the fact that he has a wife presents an insurmountable obstacle.

As he is trying to figure a way out of the embarrassing situation his bride bursts into the house, having eluded the guards stationed by the health authorities. That is the starting point of a series of highly humorous episodes. John Emerson and himself quarrel for an indefinite time in a house with his wife and ex-wife, hating the former and loving the latter. The outcome of this strange situation furnishes many laughs.

Lewis Stone and Helene Chadwick are cast as the husband and wife, while Alma Bennett plays the part of the stenographer who breaks up the home. Others in the cast are Mary Carr, William V. Mong, Hedda Hopper, Sidney Bracy, Lila Leslie, E. H. Calvert and Howard Truesdell.

Others features on the same program include, "Watch Papa," a Gump comedy. International News. Larry F. Caselo at the organ.

Teams Run Close Race in Merchants Bowling League

The closest race ever recorded in Richmond for premier bowling honors in both the team event and individually is coming to a close Thursday night at the Seventh street alleys. The McRackens, Lambrecht's Askus Club and Schneider's Tailors are separated by only three points and as they are scheduled to meet the Club Smokers, Winchester Arms and Rich Steam Laundry the closing night, either one of them can win first place and become the 1924 champions.

W. Long, captain of the McRackens team and W. Page, several times champion of Richmond, is tied for first place in the individual standing with 193 2-5 average.

It is a better policy, however, to point out all the factors and risks of the situation, and for those wishing to broadcast, to offer our own station at moderate rates, so far as our allotted limits for broadcasting would permit.

"We are confident that by thus assisting in checking tendencies that were putting the future of broadcasting in jeopardy, we have acted only in the best interests of the public.

Development Relating to Broadcasting

"Broadcasting is made possible by inventions that have cost their owners large sums not only in acquiring patents, but also in experimental and development expense. We have recognized the fact that many broadcasters, in making wrongful use of our inventions, have been ignorant of their infringement. We have, therefore, established reasonable license fees, the payment of which, coupled with an agreement to refrain from further infringement, would liquidate any claims for infringement and would give the broadcaster a legal right to the use of the patents during their life. The fees are so moderate as to represent a return far below the customary profits on unpatented electrical apparatus.

Business Prudence Dictated Patent Suits

"With approximately 400 stations in the United States using our invention without a license from us, it became a matter of ordinary prudence for us to institute legal proceedings that would establish our ownership of patents and our rights as owners. Not to protect them would be sheer neglect of duty.

"For an initial suit we decided to select a nearby station so as to minimize the costs to both parties concerned. Pursuant to this plan, we respectfully called to the attention of the owners of a station in New York the nature and extent of their infringement, listing many of the patents involved. Our notification was ignored and suit was brought.

"A suit was also brought against another defendant in relation to methods of sending programs of entertainment along wires, which methods we believe infringe upon our patents and which might interfere with operation of neighboring telephone service. Obviously, this suit is also a matter of plain business prudence.

The Company's Purposes in the Field of Radio Broadcasting

"We have been asked what our future policy will be in connection with radio broadcasting. The art of radio broadcasting is new and changing. Speculation as to the future is difficult and futile. The new problems which are constantly presenting themselves are being given the closest study, but the details of our plans could not develop as the art develops. The general guiding principles are not likely to change. They are: That we keep in and abreast of the development of the art and that we encourage in every way possible such development by others. We shall make it possible, so far as lies with us, for any one to secure broadcasting apparatus at moderate prices and for those broadcasters who are now infringing our patents, to continue their use under reasonable and moderate terms.

"For the present we shall continue to operate our own experimental broadcasting station, making its facilities available under reasonable rules, in the public interest, for those who to test broadcasting as a medium for attracting the public's notice. Far from desiring the sole responsibility for broadcasting, it is our strong belief that, in the public's interest and in our own interest, nothing should be allowed to interfere with any development of it that may be proved to be beneficial. We heartily favor government control of such activities and the federal legislation that is pending has our cordial support.

"A monopoly, either of broadcasting for entertainment of the public for hire, is not desirable from any point of view. There has been no danger and is no danger of such a monopoly."

Characterizations Are Clever in Play

One of the most important and interesting characters in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" at the Roosevelt High school auditorium next Thursday evening will be the character, an old witch, the old housekeeper of "Mr. Hyde," played by Miss Marie Gorman, who, under Mr. Waldmann's direction has developed a splendid characterization and will no doubt, score one of the individual hits of the show. Other parts in the play, besides Edward Waldmann's own interpretation of the celebrated dual of "Dr. Jekyll," the genial English physician, and "Mr. Hyde," the mysterious London criminal, include F. Oliver Gebhart as "Dr. Laugon," a famous London chemist; Harry Marcus as Mr. Utterson, an English lawyer.

Violin solo, John Curriow; vocal solo, Mrs. Aubrey Wilson.

TAILORS DEFEAT BANKERS BASE BALL TEAM 5 TO 1

Hansen, Third Baseman for Winning Squad, Proves Star Hitter

In a well played game of the City Twilight League, the Schneider Tailors defeated the Mercantile Trust Bank baseball team at the First street grounds yesterday evening by the score of 5 to 1. With the exception of a few errors that occurred owing to the poor condition of the field, and in one or two instances of poor judgement of the players, the contest was a fairly interesting one to watch. There were no brilliant plays executed, but a good, steady brand of ball was dished out to the customers.

Hansen, third baseman for the winners, was the hitting star of the game. Out of three times he connected for a home run, a single, and the other time, Nemith, pitcher for the Mercantile Trust Bank team, decided to take no chances and threw him four wide ones.

Centers, pitcher for the winners, twirled a good game striking out 10 men, and forcing the rest to pop up or ground weakly to the field. His curve was breaking good, and the Mercantile batters had a difficult time attempting to solve his delivery.

For the losers, Cornell at second base showed up fairly well at the bat, laying down a nice bunt in the fifth inning that completely crossed up the opposition. But two errors in the field spoiled his record for the day.

A thrill was furnished the spectators in the first of the seventh inning when with one on, Hansen drove a home run over the right-field fence, scoring two.

In the second inning the count was one all, but from this time on the Tailors forged steadily ahead, scoring one in the third, one in the fifth and two in the seventh, for the grand total of five.

Inability to hit the offerings of Centers accounted for Mercantile
